

Cheryl EAGERS PSQA

“The biggest adventure you can take is to live the life of your dreams” Oprah Winfrey.

Over the past decade and more I have developed more than a keen interest in photography. Having unleashed my creativity through various hobbies, it is photography that has taken hold of my heart and most of my thoughts.

With many years of practicing my skills both in the field and on the computer, my husband and myself started our small business Cherish Artz. Whilst we both still hold down full-time work we have had small success with our business in helping other photographers increase their skills with using the camera, offering beginner camera classes and other photo workshops.

What seemed like a big step at the time, I joined the Creative Shots Photo Club in 2005, just as digital photography was becoming more popular. It is the friendships within the club that I value the most, the club is there to help keep us all getting the camera out of the bag and challenging ourselves and our skills.

My personal development goal is to attend at least one photography workshop per annum, which I have so far been able to do. I find this keeps my work fresh and I love how I feel so enthused during this workshop and for a long time afterwards.

In 2009 I completed my Masters of Contemporary Arts (Visual Arts) and have since then become an Accredited Judge with the PSQA.

My photography reflects what I love the most, creating photography graphic art from my landscapes and flower photography. I have also a keen interest in photographing women and children. My latest passion is pet photography. My photography goal is to escort you to your place, a place where your heart feels the most beautiful.