Art and photography have been a passion most of my life though never seriously pursued either until recent years. I work casually as a portrait and event photographer, as well as exhibiting and selling my fine art photography. I enjoy landscapes mostly, and capturing the details of things as well as experimenting with different creative styles. I joined the Mt Gravatt club in 2012, to move beyond my photographer's block I found myself in. I quickly joined the committee and became involved with The Photographic Society of Queensland as well, which led to speaking and judging opportunities which I find challenging and fulfilling.
