Born and raised in Southern Africa, I enjoy art in many forms and techniques. Always eager to learn something new in the art form my choice of career veered towards design and photography over the years. Through the lens of my camera, I found my niche talent in the form of mood photography captivating images of body and mind within the exposed and natural human figure. I began judging for PSSA (photographic Society of South Africa), but found it difficult to pursue with the dangers of night driving. I re-entered this circle with PSQ and enjoy artistic reality/creative photography. I embrace life with gusto and one of my favourite sayings is; "Which of my photographs is my favourite? The one I'm going to take tomorrow" . – Imogen Cunningham.
